AgriSETA Research Initiative requires your input!

AgriSETA has endorsed a research initiative to analyse future technological skills gaps within the agricultural sector's workforce.

Conducted in collaboration with North-West University (NWU), this research aligns with critical industry priorities. Its primary purpose is to support evidence-based decision-making that will enhance the capability, sustainability, and ongoing development of the sector.

Please contribute to this important initiative to help ensure the sector can effectively plan for future skills demands.
